Customers are responsible for shipping costs to return merchandise unless damaged or defective.

- Returns RECEIVED after 30 days from the original delivery date will count towards merchandise, exchange or store credit only, less the shipping and handling costs.
- Returns are recommended through UPS, Fed-Ex or via the U.S. Postal Service Registered, so you may track the return. For your protection against loss, we recommend that you insure merchandise for its full value.
- Insurance - Please insure the shipment for your own protection and keep your receipts until we confirm that we have received the merchandise and it is in new condition. If the shipment is damaged in transit, we cannot accept it as a return and you will need to seek reimbursement from the shipper, e.g., UPS or USPS.
